

Declaration of impartiality for external experts of the Norwegian Scientific Committee for Food and Environment

First name: Paolo
Surname: Momigliano
Workplace: Research Program in Organismal and Evolutionary Biology, University of Helsinki

In the fields below, indicate whether there are any relationships that could affect your impartiality in the work of VKM. Due to the strict requirements regarding transparency demanded of VKM, circumstances that do not necessarily indicate an obvious conflict of interest should also be stated.

For example, an affiliation that you may have or have had to persons, institutions, companies, etc. as described below, may seem trivial to you, but can be considered very differently should the outside world suspect that an attempt has been made not to disclose it.

If you do not have anything to report under the individual items listed, write "nothing to report".

1. Direct affiliations or interests that may be of relevance to the work of VKM (economic benefits due to employment, self-employment, membership of boards, obligations, investments, remuneration, etc.):

nothing to report

2. Indirect affiliations or interests that may be of relevance to the work of VKM (indirect economic benefits, such as scholarships, project support, or other forms of benefits):

nothing to report

- 3. Affiliations or interests in connection with your own or your immediate family's working life that may be of relevance to the work of VKM (remember, also, that more distant relationships, in combination with certain benefits, losses, or disadvantages regarding the particular concern, may result in a lack of impartiality or in a conflict of interest):

nothing to report

- 4. Membership or other affiliation with organizations or bodies that may be of relevance for the work of VKM:

nothing to report

5. Other relationships that may result in impairment of trust in your impartiality (e.g., friendships / conflicts, other relationships):

nothing to report

6. Signature

By sending this completed form by e-mail to ykm@vkm.no, you confirm that the information above is complete and accurate, and that it may be published on the VKM website. VKMs rules on impartiality (presently not translated into English) are aligned with the regulations regarding impartiality and confidence of the Research council of Norway. You also acknowledge that you have received and understood the regulations regarding impartiality and confidence of the Research Council of Norway, including the extract of these regulations.
